TYPELINE

“There is no need to doubt, to be fearful that the work will not succeed. God is at the head of the work, and He will set everything in order. If matters need adjusting at the head of the work, God will attend to that, and work to right every wrong” (Selected Messages, book 2, p. 390).

Fun Run This Sunday

The Vibrant Life 5K Fun Run & Walk is scheduled for this Sunday, September 30, with registration beginning at 8:00 a.m. and the race beginning at 9:30 a.m. The registration fee is $15 per person. If you haven't already registered for the race, you can do that on site before 9:00 a.m. Linda Starkey has been hard at work for many months preparing for this day, and she has many helpers lined up for various jobs. You'll enjoy the Micheff sisters, who have brought their special energy bars for the runners. And the Vegetarian's Pursuit Café will be selling food during the day too. Come on out and have some fun on Sunday.

Happy Anniversary!

Vegetarian's Pursuit Café is planning a celebration of its one-year anniversary! That's right, one year ago, on October 9, 2006, the café first opened its doors. To celebrate this event, the proprietor, Catrice Davis, would like to thank her supporters and customers. The café is offering a free dessert with the purchase of a meal to diners on Tuesday, October 9, 2007. A meal consists of a sandwich and a side dish, a soup and a salad, or an entrée and one side dish. You'll have a hard time choosing from the variety of desserts that will be available!

Davis has provided vegetarian and vegan options in her menus and is interested in improving and expanding her services. She invites consumers to share their concerns and comments about the service during this first year through comment cards that will be available at the cashier counter.

Radios Given by . . . Angels?

Adventist World Radio broadcasts to a number of countries in which people do not have freedom to worship according to their consciences. In fact, many times the people in these places suffer great persecution for following the Christian faith. In one such place—which will remain nameless for the security of the people involved—Christianity had not penetrated at all, and the government wanted to keep it that way. It is a very isolated area made up of tribal people who followed only tribal and ancestral religions. The strong determination by the government is reflected by the fact that one man recently was shot dead trying to go to this area without proper permission.

In spite of the roadblocks and the special permits required for anyone to go into this area, AWR received piecemeal information that a large number of people were listening to the AWR radio programs. The radio waves had jumped over the soldiers, the police, the roadblocks, and all the efforts to keep these people from being “tainted” by influences from the outside world, including Christianity. That is cause for rejoicing in itself. But there is more to the story.

Just within the past two months AWR received a confirmed, reliable report that told the following experience. There were six different tribal villages in mountainous regions that had absolutely no contact with each other. The individual who brought out the report had talked with the chiefs of each of the six villages, and each of them had told the same story without awareness of events in any of the other villages.

Radios and Angels

Each chief told that some strangers whom they did not know had come to their village. These strangers were tall and had an aura of bright light about them. These bright beings gave the chief in each village a radio. They showed the chiefs how to use the radio and then carefully showed them how to tune the radio to hear the Adventist World Radio programs. They told them the frequency and the time of the programs. After a few words of encouragement, these strangers suddenly disappeared, and the people never saw them again. In each village, unbeknownst to the other villages, the people began to listen to the AWR program, gathering around that radio every day. The reporter said that these villagers are now very devout believers. They keep the Sabbath and worship while listening to the radio.

Our AWR producer for this area said, "I must believe that these are the angels who care for these people. It is unbelievable, but we must believe. I had goose bumps all over my body when I heard this report."

Whew! What do you think? Pray for these people. Just identify them as the people to whom angels gave radios. I'm sure the Lord knows who they are.

With Gratitude

Dear Review and Herald family,

Words cannot express the appreciation and love that we feel deep in our hearts for the tremendous support that I, Mayra (my sister here in town), and the Gatz and Crowley families received from all of you in so many ways. First of all, your prayers were so needed, and you can be assured that God heard them all. God gave us strength, helped us, and continues to help us during our difficult time in the loss of my mother, Estrella (Star), and my sister-in-law, Darlene Sue. God helped Doug and me during a very difficult time in Puerto Rico, and we were able to see God's hand working there. In addition to your prayers, there were your personal expressions of condolence, e-mails, cards, the flowers that beautified the funeral home and the church, and the food that many of you provided for about 50 family members during this ordeal. Difficult times and adjustments are ahead of us during this next year, and your continued prayers will be very meaningful to us and heard by God. Thank you, and may God continue to bless you as you are used by Him to be a blessing to others.

Madelyn and Doug Gatz, Mayra Ruiz and family, and the Gatz and Crowley families
