Inexpensive Ways to Lose Weight and Stay Fit

Trying to lose weight could cost you a lot of money—gym memberships, special diet foods, exercise equipment for your home, or even hiring a personal trainer.

But there are ways you can lose weight without spending a lot of money. You will still need dedication, time, and a willingness to make changes in your life to achieve your goal. Here are some inexpensive ways to lose weight and stay fit:

* Start a neighborhood walking club. Invite neighbors who have dogs to come along. Or join a local pickup game of dodgeball, basketball, or racquetball. At the most, you'll need the equipment for the game. Set a weekly time for games and a daily time for the walks. Having other people involved will help encourage you to continue moving and exercising.

* Add to your daily menu healthy ingredients that benefit your body. For example, relaxing with a cup of natural tea can help you reduce body fat and increase your metabolism rate. Oolong tea contains rich amino acids and cellulose, which can help lower your cholesterol levels. Green tea leaves contain vitamins C and E and a good amount of fiber. If you prefer black tea, its benefits include help with digestion. Drinking a cup of tea (without the sugar or cream calories added) after each meal will help you slowly dissolve fat in your body. Premium tea leaves give you the best quality and best taste. Teawan (www.Teawan.com) has both quality tea and tea ware products from Taiwan. You can choose tea bags or loose leaf options, depending on your preference.

* Do your own home workout. Grab a full jug of laundry detergent and use it for some lifting. If you're looking for something lighter, fill a plastic bottle with water to use as a weight. Start dancing around your house, and in no time you'll break a sweat. This is great for cardiovascular exercise, and enjoyable if you can crank up your favorite tunes.

* Borrow a fitness video from the library and tone your body with the experts. Repeat the video several times and then switch it for a new one from the library. If you have cable or satellite television, tune into some of the fitness channels for different programs. You'll find styles ranging from yoga workouts to belly dancing to step aerobics. Set specific times each week to run through a 30-minute workout.

* Clean the house. Pushing a vacuum at a rapid pace is good exercise. So is scrubbing floors or bathtubs. These activities also are good for toning muscles.

Don't let money keep you from accomplishing your goal of losing weight and getting fit. If one exercise or activity gets boring, switch to another to keep your workout fresh and to target different muscles. And organize a plan with a friend or family member so you can help keep each other on task to accomplishing both of your goals.—Courtesy of ARAcontent.

New Product Highlights

Title: Let It Go: A Story of Forgiveness

Author: Yvonne Rodney

It was a terrible secret. A secret she'd kept for a long time. Until the day she couldn't hold on to it any longer . . .

Lisa wasn't prepared for her husband's reaction when she told him. Guilt had built up over the years to the point where she couldn't bear it anymore.

Grace had been trying to keep up a brave front, but the news spilled out with her tears. There was nothing more she could do.

Yolanda was struggling with emotions that threatened to cripple a new relationship—and fighting back anger toward God over the loss of her beloved husband.

Marissa was a newlywed with a promising career and an inconvenient dilemma—one she thought best taken care of on her own.

Catherine had dealt with her sorrow long ago, but hers was a tale that needed to be told.

This is a story of women overwhelmed with inconsolable grief and soul-consuming guilt—and their journey to redemption and healing. There's only one way, you know. Only one.

Title: The Indomitable Gertrude Green

Author: Max W. Hammonds

Author Bio: Max W. Hammonds, a retired anesthesiologist, first met Gertrude Green when he and his family served as missionaries in Thailand. Their paths crossed again in North Carolina after Gertrude's retirement, and thus began his 12-year odyssey to research and write this book.

"Have you no fear at all, Gertrude?" Betsy demanded.

"Yes, I do," responded the feisty 11-year-old. "But not much."

That was Gertrude—headstrong, confident, and opinionated! Her mother, Lena, sure that her oldest daughter would be somebody famous, encouraged Gertrude to follow her dreams and taught her to be self-disciplined and industrious.

And no, Gertrude wasn't afraid of much. Nursing school with its long hours and hard work didn't faze her. Carrying the workload of two or three people didn't bother her. Accepting a call to China as a missionary nurse in 1936 . . . well, she was understandably bewildered at first, but certainly not frightened. Challenging an arrogant Japanese soldier, single-handedly running a hospital, and confronting the spoiled wife of a high-ranking general were peanuts compared to the one fear that brought the unstoppable Gertrude Green to her knees.

She ran from that fear all the way home to Rochester, New York, but God needed her back in China. Back in the same hospital, in much the same circumstances she was in when she left—but this time her faith in Him was ready to mature. Oh, and this time she and 51 others would need to flee the Communist army in the dead of winter—on foot.
